INSOL International
Academics’ Colloquium

13-15 July 2016
Grange St. Paul's Hotel, London
Invitation

I would like to warmly invite academics and practitioners alike to attend the International Colloquium of the INSOL Academics’ Group.

Since 1997 this meeting has provided a truly exceptional platform for meeting, discussing and networking between those within academia and those from the general membership of INSOL International. Colleagues from Universities and research institutes world-wide are able to come together with lawyers, accountants and other practitioners in order to exchange theoretical insights and practical observations, and to bring these elements together as significant, useful and commercially valuable perspectives on the global insolvency market.

Ours is a complex and specialist field and this is reflected in a superb programme, covering a diverse range of timely issues currently impacting corporations, banks, regulators, legislators and those in the professions.

I very much look forward to meeting colleagues old and new in London for two days of highly stimulating sessions.

Professor Rosalind Mason
Queensland University of Technology
Chair of the INSOL International Academics’ Group
